

SHORT BIO

Rafaela Tsiligkiridou has studied Primary School Education, at Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. Her postgraduate studies have been on International Education at the University of Brighton, in the United Kingdom, where she conducted research on minority education in Thrace. Since December 2017, she has been a PhD candidate of the Department of Social Anthropology and History of the University of the Aegean. Her research interests focus on issues of education of minority, migrant and refugee groups. At the same time, she works as a primary school teacher. Since May 2017, she is a member of the Observatory of the Refugee and Migration Crisis in the Aegean, and more precisely, a member of the Repository/Archive.